Welcome Message from the Conference President
Prof. Detlev Ganten

Dear Friends,
Dear Colleagues,

It is our great pleasure to extend to you our invitation to “Hypertension 2008”, the joint congress bringing together delegates for the 18th Scientific Meeting of the European Society of Hypertension and the 22nd Scientific Meeting of the International Society of Hypertension, to be held in Berlin, Germany, from June 14 to 19, 2008. After the successful 2006 meetings of ESH in Madrid and ISH in Fukuoka, we are convinced that the joint meeting in the year 2008 in Berlin of our societies also will offer you a great program with the latest results in the field of hypertension. We are expecting more than 7,000 participants at this meeting. The scientific program, which you will find in this 2nd Announcement, will be accompanied by a variety of opportunities to share scientific knowledge and clinical experience through state-of-the-art lectures, breakfast topical workshops and satellite symposia. It also offers educational sessions for practising physicians and health care professionals. Berlin, currently one of the most exciting cities in the world, provides the perfect background for Hypertension 2008. As the hometown of celebrated scientists like Rudolf Virchow, Robert Koch, Paul Ehrlich and Max Delbrück, Berlin has a long and outstanding history of medical discoveries. This history is continued by the “Charité Universitätsmedizin Berlin”, its research facilities and its many partner institutions at the present time. Come and join us at Hypertension 2008. Don’t miss the chance to meet and get in contact with your friends and colleagues from all over the world.

Yours sincerely,

Welcome Message from the Governing Mayor of Berlin Klaus Wowereit

It is my pleasure to invite all participants to the Hypertension 2008 conference to the German capital city of Berlin. Berlin is an international gathering point for trade fairs and congresses that offers the quintessential ambience for an intensive exchange of professional knowledge. We are proud that the city has developed into a leading location to host international medical and health care conferences. With your very important and well known Hypertension 2008 conference you are underlining our reputation in this field. On top of its standing as a notable conference location, Berlin has an excellent reputation as a city of science and medicine. Based on its great tradition in this area, Berlin is sharpening its profile as a modern health city.

The international exchange of knowledge concerning the research in the field of hypertension is becoming more and more important. As of today, hypertension is still underrated in public and it is a danger for the health of many people. My regards go especially to the physicians and researchers who are dedicating their work to fight against Hypertension.

In this spirit I cordially welcome all participants to the city of Berlin for the Hypertension 2008 conference. I wish you a productive conference, as well as stimulating and pleasurable days in Berlin.
Welcome Message from the ESH President Elect
Prof. Stéphane Laurent

Dear Friends,
Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the European Society of Hypertension (ESH), it is my pleasure and privilege to welcome you to the Hypertension Berlin 2008 meeting, organised under the auspices of the European and International Societies of Hypertension. Our hosts, Professor Detlev Ganten and colleagues, are famous for their outstanding scientific contribution to the knowledge of hypertension. This meeting provides you a unique opportunity to gather with colleagues from around the world in an exciting educational and professional environment, devoted to the study, prevention, and care of hypertension. One of the unique strengths of this program is to link basic, clinical and population science.

Despite the many scientific advances of the past few decades, much work remains to be done. Hypertension has become the number one cause of death in the world according to a WHO supported investigation. Although we all do our best to reduce coronary heart disease, stroke, heart failure and cardiovascular complications, diabetes and obesity continue to increase worldwide. Primary and secondary prevention of cardiovascular diseases require a global approach of the cardiovascular risk, and an in-depth understanding of the mechanisms of hypertension. Six years after the last joint meeting in Prague, both Societies are pleased to invite you to the 18th meeting of the European Society of Hypertension and the 22nd meeting of the International Society of Hypertension. I sincerely hope that you will enjoy the Scientific Sessions and your stay in Berlin.
Dear Friends and Colleagues,

On behalf of the Executive Committee of the International Society of Hypertension (ISH) it is my great privilege to invite you to join your many friends and colleagues at Berlin 2008, hosted by our esteemed German colleagues. In order to uphold the standards for scientific excellence that previous meetings have set, we are planning a broad program with wide appeal to basic, clinical, and population scientists, general practitioners and students at all levels of experience, supported by renowned scientists and clinicians from all over the world. Scientific exchange and education are of course the primary reasons for you to attend this meeting.

However the events in Berlin 2008 promise much more in terms of great hospitality and good food in a dynamic, culturally and historically unique landscape in the heart of Europe. I look forward to welcoming your active contribution to what we know will again be a lively and successful meeting.

Yours sincerely,

Call for Abstracts

Hypertension 2008 welcomes the submission of abstracts for original contribution to the field. All abstracts submitted will go through a blind, peer-review process carried out by an international review panel. Each abstract will be reviewed by at least two reviewers and the final selection of abstracts will be done by members of the Abstract Review Committee in spring 2008. All accepted abstracts will appear in their full form in the Abstract Book and on the Abstract CD, which will be available at the conference.

Guidelines

- All abstracts must be written in English.
- The deadline for abstract submission is January 15, 2008. Abstracts will not be accepted after this date. Abstract submission will open July 1, 2007.
- All abstracts must be submitted online through the conference website at www.hypertension2008.com. Abstracts sent by fax, post or e-mail will not be considered. It is the author’s responsibility to submit a correct abstract. Any errors in spelling, grammar or scientific fact will be reproduced as submitted by the author.
- The text should not exceed 2000 characters, including blanks. One table or figure can be inserted allowing 500 characters per table / figure.

The text of the abstract should briefly state:

Objectives
Indicate the purpose of the study or the hypothesis that was tested.

Methods
Include the setting for the study, the subjects, the diagnosis or intervention, and the type of statistical analysis. If references are needed, they should be provided in the text.

Results

Conclusion
Briefly discuss the data and emphasize the significance of the results.

All abstracts should disclose primary findings and avoid, whenever possible, promissory statements such as „experiments are in progress“ or „results will be discussed“.

Hypertension 2008 takes place at the International Convention Center (ICC), Berlin.

It is conveniently located in West Berlin, with direct connections to the expressway and public transport, only about 15 minutes from Tegel Airport and ten minutes to Berlin central station. The International Convention Center (ICC) will be used for the scientific sessions, while the exhibition will take place at the northern exhibition halls, which are directly connected to the ICC Foyer level by a walkway.

Since its opening, the „Internationales Congress Centrum Berlin“ is known as one of the biggest and most successful convention centers in the world. With its 320m length, 80m width and 40m height, the building became one of the most famous buildings in German post war history, constructed by the architects Ralf Schüler and Ursulina Schüler-Witte. Even today, it is a role model for many convention centers in the world.

The City of Berlin

Berlin, Capital of the Federal Republic of Germany, is located at the heart of Europe and also, after the EU enlargement in 2004, at the centre of the European Community. Berlin is the largest city in Germany, with approximately 3,400,000 inhabitants.

In recent years Berlin has established itself as one of the most attractive destinations for trade fairs, conventions, meetings and incentives. But Berlin is far more than just a meeting point for leading people from science, business and politics. It also offers unique cultural and recreational attractions. Science, culture and pleasure are waiting to be discovered in Berlin.

Featuring three excellent opera houses, seven symphony orchestras, and over 150 diverse theaters, Berlin’s extensive multi-sided cultural programs fulfill even the most sophisticated expectations.

Treasures of world heritage can be viewed in Berlin’s more than 160 museums and 350 galleries.

Be also amazed at the architectural richness of Berlin: East German architecture at Alexanderplatz, the magnificent Unter den Linden Boulevard, Brandenburg Gate and the German Parliament building. Potsdamer Platz, the apparent playground of modern architects, attracts visitors not only with its futuristic glass and steel, but also with its shopping mall, cinemas, restaurants and cafés.

For a more relaxed afternoon, enjoy a leisurely stroll through the Tiergarten, the largest nature preserve in Berlin, or enjoy a refreshing drink at one of the cozy German beer gardens.

GETTING THERE AND AWAY

Berlin can be easily reached from all over Europe as well as from any destination in the world, thanks to its central location in Europe and the excellent infrastructure.

Berlin is connected to other cities by no less than three airports: Tegel, Schönefeld and Tempelhof are located in the north, south-west and center of Berlin, allowing transfer times between 10 and 45 minutes.

An extensive, modern railway and motorway network links all major cities in Germany and Europe. Within the city of Berlin, a tightly knitted transport system with buses, subways and commuter trains allows for short traveling times.

Reaching the Conference Venue
The most convenient way to reach the ICC is via public transport. The closest station (in front of the ICC) is “Messe Nord/ICC”. It is located on the S-Bahn circle and can be reached with all circle lines as well as subway U2.

From the Airport (Tegel / TXL)
Berlin has three airports: Tegel, Tempelhof and Schönefeld. All airports have good connections to the ICC. Tegel Airport is the closest to the Conference Venue:
